Reflections
OPENING

This year Olivet saw a spiritual revival on campus: a definite renewal of God's Spirit on the campus. "Education With a Christian Purpose," is the motto Olivet has exemplified this year. The Bible tell us to be models of Jesus and reflect Him to the world. Olivet offers a caring environment away from home. The students will reflect what they have learned here into the world.

Reflections can be either good or bad. A reflection of this school is you. College is a time that you will grow both spiritually and intellectually. Olivet gave you the keys to success through many means. One was the updating of ONU facilities and new building construction through the Capitol Campaign of 1998-99.

The first change the campus saw in the fall was the construction of the new entrance. What was once a stone sign became a pair of symmetrical, curved brick walls bearing the name Olivet Nazarene University. The old stone sign was moved to a new position at the east end of University Avenue, near Ward Field. Next, the foundation for the Admissions Welcome Center was put into place just east of the new entrance. Another major project was the renovation of the student dining room in Ludwig. The transformation from "cafeteria" to the "scatter system" all but erased the long lines of students wrapped around the edges of the room. Phase one of dormitory renovation in Williams and Nesbitt was completed with further ( Cont. p. 4) residence hall work continuing for the next three summers. An outdoor patio was added just outside Common Grounds - the ONU coffee shop. Additionally, two biology labs in Reed Hall of Science were combined to form a "SMART lab." All of these improvements will enhance student life and help prepare students for the next millennium.

Justin Long just can't remember where he sits for chapel. Students looking for their chapel seats on the posted lists is an annual sight.

When you leave Olivet you will take this book off the shelf and reflect back on this year. You may not even remember all of the construction work that the 1998-99 academic year brought.

Students give a thumbs up to the new cafeteria, and just sit back and enjoy it.

Olivet's new entrance sign awaits the landscapers' finishing touches.

Hopefully you will remember the values taught here. A time of reflection is the time to look inside of yourself and see who you are. College is the time that individuals question their being and gain their own sense of spirituality with God. Do you ever reflect in your quiet times and evaluate your day? Was it good? Did you use your time wisely? Did you do poorly on a test? These and many other questions may flood your mind. Olivet gives you the Christian support to help you grow and make the most of your time while at (Cont. page 6).

As the new millennium draws near, and the clock ticks toward a new century, what changes will occur? Will you learn from your experiences here at Olivet? What will you take with you and reflect into the world?

Simply take a look at the year. This is the last Aurora of the millennium. Reflect with us.

New Sights for students
Back 2 School

An air of excitement marked the start of the 1998-99 school year. While students spent the summer working, ministering, relaxing and taking summer courses, the Olivet community was busy preparing for the start of a new year.

Eight days following graduation ceremonies, renovations began on the dining room. The transformation was dramatic. Student input helped make the project a success. With only hours left before the beginning of classes, the final touches were completed.

The opening of Common Grounds last spring with the addition of the outdoor patio in August increased the options available to students on campus. These renovations serve as examples of several significant projects undertaken, including: a new campus cable TV system, new windows and air conditioners in Nesbitt Hall, and a new fire detection and alarm system in each residence hall.

The month of June was highlighted by two new student orientations. Altogether, four hundred students attended the two June orientations, while 105 students attended the August orientation prior to the start of classes. A record enrollment of 2,403 consisted of 561 freshman, 981 upperclassmen, and 861 graduate and adult students.

The year's opening chapel service was marked by the work of the Holy Spirit in ways not often seen during the beginning of a school year. Following a relevant and inspiring message from Dr. John Bowling, students from across the auditorium stood and made their way to the altar. With the spiritual tone in place, our hearts were prepared for a time of fall revival on our campus. The ministry of Promise and Dr. Jim Diehl brought special and meaningful days of spiritual renewal to the Olivet community.

It is times such as these that bring me the greatest satisfaction. The success of Student Development is not measured in buildings or programs. Success depends upon the number of lives encouraged toward Christian development.

Chapel Begins with Spiritual Emphasis

Chapel was probably the thing I was most fearful of when I decided to come to Olivet. The whole concept of required church in the middle of a class day just threatened something inside me. But after my first few chapels, I felt better. I was encouraged to see Chaplain Bill Bray's attempt to make chapel a unique and diverse mix of school and church, while incorporating and focusing on the student.

Dr. Bray expressed that his philosophy is that chapels should be more about identification for students, rather than inspiration. His love for good rock & roll helps him relate God's message in a way students both understand and remember. He wants to address issues, and not out of shock value, but with a sincere burden for students that are uncomfortable with the evangelical subculture. Bray said, "The bottom line is for the student in the chair, unsure of where they are [spiritually]."

When Chaplain Bray starts searching for a new feature to include in chapels, he looks for relational aspects; easily identifiable points; varieties; and multi-ethnic, cultural, and gender selections. He describes it as more of a shooting the arrows and then drawing a bull's-eye around it. In the last five years Olivet has moved to a more national level in reference to the quality of the speaker/guests. Bray's attendance at an annual chaplains' retreat has allowed him to obtain a more complex network of resources.

A year with special artists like Bebo Norman, Andrew Petterson, and speakers like Jennifer Knapp and Brennan Manning added and sustained the exciting power of God's spirit which began in the first few weeks of school. It was an attitude and power that had not been felt at Olivet for a few years, but WILL leave a mark.

"College chapels blend school with church, learning with worship. Partly school, chapel has teaching objectives within an acknowledged academic community - yet chapel is not a classroom singularly devoted to instruction. Partly church, chapel includes singing, praying, preaching - yet chapel is not a church which provides the enduring spiritual nurture and fellowship offered by local pastors and congregations. Rather, college chapels provide a unique kind of young adult ministry, with limited ends and restricted means. College chapels, like all other college programs, focus on the needs and aptitudes of the young adults who attend."

Every year, ONU students have high expectations of Ollies Follies. Social Committee's efforts helped this year's competitions surpass all expectations. The weekend was themed "Wendy's Wacky Weekend," in honor of Wendy Parsons. The turn out of students was phenomenal and finding eager participants was not a problem. When the points from the athletic and goofy games were tallied, the juniors and seniors were neck- and-neck for first. After the skit and talent competition, the seniors won it all and became two-year champs of Ollies Follies. # Nothing says Quad Party like... Affy Tapples

Ben Moreland has a great time checking out chicks.

Every year there are a number of Quad parties. The themes of the parties are always fun and exciting. However, this year for the first time in Olivet history, there was a Quad party without a theme. The Decker Quadrangle was filled with people and music filled the campus of Olivet Nazarene University. The good Nazarenes stood with both of their feet firmly planted. Even so, the majority of students had tons of fun just standing around chatting with friends. The most popular Quad party in recent years was the Fall Feast. This year's Fall Feast was moved inside to Birchard Gym. The location of the party didn't stop the good times. One of the highlights of every Fall Feast is eating an Affy Tapple. When Kathy Wyse was asked why she attended the Fall Feast, she replied, "It's all about the Affy Tapples." So, if for no other reason, we will see you at next year's Fall Feast for the caramel apples.

Open dorms, community bathrooms, fire alarms, annoying neighbors or roommates, late night pizza/study parties, and prank phone calls. What do all these things have in common? They are all part of the wonderful world of dorm life.

For those of us who have moved away from a home in which the bedroom, bathroom, and kitchen were for the most part ours, we have had to make quite a few adjustments. However, I think we can all agree, it's one adventure we will never forget.

So what is a typical day like living in the dorms? Well for the most part, you wake up to the sound of your alarm clock, force yourself out of bed and hopefully make your way to the shower. At this point some will choose sleep as the best option, while the rest of us will make our way to class. As the day flies by, some will not enter their room until it's time to retire for the night. Others spend their time going in and out doing various activities such as taking naps, or studying. The day ends when you decide to return to your room, jump into bed, and get a couple of hours of sleep before the journey starts again.

Fall Fest '98

Even if it means getting wet, Matt Kreitzer and Jason McHerny show us they would do anything for an apple.

This year the 17th annual Fall Fest was held at Rosenboom Farm. Although Fall Fest has been a tradition here at Olivet for many years now, this year's had a slightly different twist compared to those held in the past. The junior class, which sponsored the event, had an Oktoberfest theme based on the German festival. It was a night of fun carnival games, pumpkin carving, food, and prizes. There were contests that enabled many of the students to get involved including pumpkin carving contests, root beer chugging races, bobbing for apples, and a wood cutting contest with a two-man saw.

Candy was distributed, laughter filled the halls and that ever-so-freaky guy scared you to death. When you had collected enough candy to last you through finals, it was time to head over to the Jazz Band concert. Each band member wore a funky costume. Prizes were awarded to the best-dressed guy and gal. The fun of the night had come to an end, but the candy lasted for months.

Dedication

Dr. John Hanson

When choosing whom to dedicate the 1999 Aurora to, one faculty member stood out as a prime example of "Education With a Christian Purpose." He may not always be in the spotlight on Olivet's campus, but the person we have chosen that best reflects Olivet is Dr. John Hanson.

Dr. Hanson graduated from ONU in the spring of 1957. He then went on to complete his graduate work at Purdue University. In the fall of 1960, he was invited to Olivet's campus to interview for a position. Following the will of God in 1961, Dr. Hanson took a leap of faith and joined Olivet's faculty, moving his wife and oldest daughter, Heidi, from Lafayette, Indiana to Kankakee. After only a couple of years here, he traveled to Chicago in 1963 to study the reaction of cobalt compounds at the Institute of Technology. His first sabbatical was spent at the University of Chicago where he worked dilligently from 1974 to 1975 on vitamin B12 model compounds. Most recently, on sabbatical in 1984, he went north to the University of Madison in Wisconsin. In Wisconsin he taught for a semester, and also was able to study silicon chemistry.

What has kept him here for close to four decades? Dr. Hanson says he has stayed because of the sense of God's calling and the need to fulfill it. He says it has been wonderful for him to work with students, see them progress, graduate, and then take their place in the world as Christians.

His wife, Esther, said, "He has given his teaching his best and the best has come back to him and his family." Although his two daughters, Heidi Goerlitz and Heather Brayan, no longer live at home, Dr. Hanson and his wife still reside in Bourbonnais. In the local community, Dr. Hanson has served on the Bourbonnais township as an auditor. He is also active at College Church of the Nazarene where he is a regular member and a past board member. Dr. Hanson now enjoys leading a Wednesday night Bible study group with about six other men from the church.

"Olivet is a great school, and it's been my life's work. What I have put into the University, I have been grateful to contribute. God isn't finished with me yet. I recall the verse, 'He who began a good work in you, will be faithful to complete it'."

It is with great pleasure that the Aurora staff dedicates the 1999 Aurora to Dr. John Hanson for countless contributions to the local community of Bourbonnais and the campus community of Olivet Nazarene University.

Reflections--what a great theme for the 1998-99 Aurora. A yearbook provides the perfect vehicle to preserve the historical record of the University. This record becomes a "reflection" of the people and events which shaped our time together on this campus. And, in addition, the yearbook enables us to reflect back on this year anytime--simply by opening these pages. So this year's theme encompasses both the noun (reflections) and the verb (to reflect).

When I think of Olivet, particularly its students, I think about the values and characteristics which are reflected in our lives. There is an Olivet difference which can be seen and experienced. Throughout its history, Olivet Nazarene University has sought to be a place where the best in learning is fully integrated with the best of faith. We exist to provide a liberal arts "Education With a Christian Purpose."

There is, therefore, something different about Olivet and there should be something different about you, the students of Olivet--not something odd, but something distinctive. This is more than just another school, more than a set of buildings or a catalog of classes--this is a place where futures are fashioned for both time and eternity.

Olivet reflects a strong commitment to academic excellence. The members of the faculty have outstanding credentials as well as a genuine concern for students. Also ONU has strong support for technology, international travel, and learning environment.

Another attribute reflected in the character of Olivet is the University's vibrant and positive commitment to campus life. The Aurora reflects the work of scores of clubs and organizations which have contributed in positive ways to the accomplishments of the University. The mission of the ONU extends from the classroom, to the residence halls and student center.

The character of Olivet is reflected academically and socially, but the most significant expression of our mission is spiritually. The presence of God is to be reflected throughout all that happens on this campus. The very life of Christ ought to be seen in each of us.

The scripture says: "And we, who with unveiled faces all reflect the Lord's glory, are being transformed into his likeness with ever-increasing glory, which comes from the Lord, who is the Spirit" (2 Corinthians 3:18).

"Olivet reflects a strong commitment to academic excellence."

Homecoming in Style

Talk about the busiest weekend of my life. As the photographer I took only 6 rolls of film by myself, and with my cronies I believe we went through 12 rolls in total. The week before homecoming I almost threw my phone out the window because of the calls "Natalie can you run here?" Natalie can you take some pictures of this? But it all enabled me to see the alumni more, and a more diverse selection of the acativites. There was literally something for everyone. For those who like sports, there were basketball, fottball, soccer, and track. For those musically inclined, or those who wish they were, there was a conert with the "Other 3 Tenors." For the more relaxed sort, you could hang out with your old friends in Common Grounds. Whatever your niche, you were all pulled here before and pulled back once again to remember those "good 'ole days." This campus is a place of memories and reflections, everywhere you look there is a story, and I am happy I can be a part of it.

"Come Swing with the Seniors" was a great way to kick off this school year. The senior class council sponsored the Late Skate for the entire student body. This year's first Late Skate was at Hidden Cove where students could skate, eat, and play video games. The Grail concert and impromptu performance started the night off with laughter. Many students attended and had a great time whether they were dressed for the occasion in 1920's clothing or just skated to the music.

This year's 80's Late Skate was "totally rad." Seeing so many students dressed in 80's trends reminded me of the good old years. The years when bangs had to be two inches high and guys had to wear tight rolled, dark blue jeans, in order to be cool. It's funny to think that in ten years from now there will be another generation of college kids hosting Late Skates. The only difference is they will be dressing up like you and me. Awesome!

The Christian Music Society, or CMS, really took off this year. Having very little to work with from previous years, the CMS council members had it tough. However, this didn't stop them from trying.

CMS worked on a couple different coffee houses and concerts to keep those here at Olivet a bit more entertained. Something new this year was a newsletter containing such things as updates on concerts, information on "music stuff," and creative contributions such as poems.

The goal this year was to give an extra effort to make CMS what it should be...a way for students to come together and listen to good Christian music.

What do you get with 300 screaming fans, ONU's women's and men's basketball teams and 100 free t-shirts? The answer is TIGER MADNESS. Tiger Madness was a pep rally for Olivet's basketball teams. It was held to energize the student body's excitement for the upcoming basketball season.

The pep rally was co-sponsored by SIFE and ASC. The night featured introductions of players, participation from the crowd, crazy games, and a slam dunk contest. There was even sibling rivalry when Tyler and Tiffany Field went head-to-head in the 3 point shoot out.

Senior Lady Tiger Holly Disch commented on the event by saying, "It was great to see all of the students come out and support us. We all had a lot of fun."

John

There once was a man named John.

The presidency of Olivet he took on

And the events that took place,

Were the best in this case.

He got to see Christian music's greatest stars

From Burlap to Casmire, Silage and even Jars.

The football team got him out of his seat,

Beating Tri-State made him bring fans to their feet.

He then sat in Kresge for a bit,

And watched the fall production of God's Favorite.

Here comes December and John can't wait,

Handel's Messiah was his next date.

An Aspen Christmas at the Lodge is last,

And so John's first semester of events have passed.

Burlap to Cashmere, Silage and Jars of Clay packed McHie Arena with a crowd of 2,500. The audience was dazzled by a well-choreographed light show that accompanied the different musical artists.

Silage opened and energized the audience with their fun, punk-style music that was contained in a "pop" package. Jars of Clay's Steve Mason and Charlie Lowell helped them out in a little jazz ditty.

Burlap to Cashmere was next to take the stage. Their enthusiastic Spanish guitar and obvious musical abilities entertained the crowd with Christian lyrics.

Fans were then excited and Jars of Clay didn't let them down. The band's energy was catching. Lead singer Dan Haseltine improved a country style song and involved the audience a bit more. The band even surprised fans with a new song that they wrote from the "Prince of Egypt" inspirational soundtrack.

Jars of Clay really got into their music, and the audience appreciated the concert. In late Spring of 1999 album number three for these boys is due to hit music stores.

O. N. U. Tiger's NAIA Football Championship

Over 3,000 fans filled Ward stadium to watch the Tigers defeat their opponent.

Bianca Rider, Jamilee Cook, Duane Dubert, Alison Shaver, Jen Goebel, and James Goebel take the cheap way out and tailgate it.

For the first time in Olivet's history the football team made it to the playoffs. The team finished the regular season 8 - 2, which also happened to be a school record. This solid regular season led the Tigers to the NAIA playoffs. The team was first paired with Hastings College in Hastings, Nebraska. Hastings ranked number one at the time and was surprised when the Tigers won the game 32 - 26. That evening on the ride home, the Tigers received word that they would next face the University of Sioux Falls. This team also underestimated the power of the Tigers. Your ONU Tigers came out on top again, 37 - 34. This exciting season continued with a home game against Tri - State.

A crowd of over 3,000 fans filled Ward Field to watch the Tigers put on another great performance against Tri - State. A victory, with a final score of 33 - 28, led the Tigers to the National Championship game. As the score board time reached 0:00, the student body charged the field and tore down the goal post. The fans knew their Tigers would now compete for the National Championship title. On a cold rainy day, in Savannah, Tennessee, ONU faced the challenge of Azusa Pacific University. On December 19,1998, the Tiger's dream season came to an end. The ONU Tigers were defeated, 17 - 14. Although the Tigers had been defeated, they still had come a very long way. Congratulations Tigers.

GOD'S FAVORITE FALL PLAY

Professor Jeff Wells directed "God's Favorite" by John Lennon for Olivet's Fall production. The classic Bible story of Job was taken and put in a modern light, with colorful costuming and a nouveau-type stage setting. # The Messiah...

Continuing an Olivet tradition, Handel's Messiah was performed by Orpheus Choir, University Singers and Choral Union December 6,1998, at six o'clock in the evening. Olivet students, parents, alumni and faculty gathered to hear the famous oratorio written by George Frideric Handel, which is a musical narrative of the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Messiah. Singing the soprano solos were Melinda Jackson, Sara McDaniel, and Carrie Williams. Singing the alto solos were Molly Cropper and Jennifer Kell. Singing the tenor and bass were Josh Cobb, Matthew Meyer and Justin Nixon. Altogether there were over 150 performers, including 127 singers, and 34 orchestra members. Led by conductor/director Dr. Jeff Bell, the musical ensemble was accompanied by organist Dr. Tim Nelson and harpsichord player, Professor Alice Edwards. These faculty members helped bring together the excellent writing of Handel and the musicianship of Olivet's choral members. Overall, The Messiah was a success with a full audience in Chalfant Hall, thus continuing the Olivet Christmas time tradition. "The Messiah is a wonderful event in which to participate. Each choir works on the music during most of the fall semester. But, what makes the production so incredible is that we all come together with one purpose... to praise and serve one God," said Christine Casteel.

An Evening at the Lodge...
CHRISTMAS BANQUET

"Christmas at the Lodge" was a huge success in which hundreds of students and faculty came together to celebrate. The weather definitely added to the theme for this year's banquet, but that didn't stop anyone from dressing up and coming out. Christmas banquet has traditionally been a time in which students could take a break from all that studying and have some fun. The students generally have high expectations for the Christmas banquet. This year was no different and Social Committee did a wonderful job of living up to the high standards of the students. The smell of the evergreens filled the air and other great decorations added to the wonderful mood. The mountain scenes and the lodge area were quite the popular places for picture taking. Laughs and smiles were present at every table. Tim Britton was asked what his favorite part of the evening was and said, " I got to pose for a picture with five fine ladies." The evening overall was great fun. Social Committee has done it again.

Sculpting Tomorrow
Art

The Art Department gives each student a basic understanding of all elements of art. There are five areas in which a student can specialize. They are: drawing, painting, art history, commercial graphics, and art education. The three professors in the Art Department include Professor William Greiner (Art Department chair), Professor Chelise Kinzinger, and Professor William Petit. There have been several changes in the department this year. Two adjuct professors, each teaching a class a piece, were added. Professor Mike Perrot is teaching a sculpture class and Professor Jerry Solthis is teaching a graphics course. The sculpture class is a stepping stone class that will give new insight as to whether to begin a specialized field for sculpture.

The Art Department is growing a great deal. It is said to be the fastest growing department on this campus. Professor Kinzinger explains, "there is a great deal of bonding that takes place between the students and the professors." The professors try to spend as much time as possible on campus working with the students. With the one-on-one contact it is not hard to realize why the department is growing so quickly.

The Biological Clock is Ticking... Biology

Toward another year of excellence

Biology majors at Olivet are offered course work that will provide them with a pragmatic foundation in Biological Sciences at various levels, such as molecular, cellular, individual, and ecological. The work load may be difficult, but the rewards of a solid education in biology are many. After receiving a degree in Biological Sciences, students have varied career paths from which they may choose, in addition to an excellent groundwork that will allow them to further pursue an advanced degree in Biology.

Many biology majors feel that the greatest part of the department is the faculty itself. Comprised of five professors, the Biology Department staff takes those extra steps to create a personal one-on-one relationship with the students. The fact that many extra hours of studying and lab work are put forth, along with the reality that the Biology Department is comprised of a wonderful faculty, gives proof enough why the Biological Sciences have, are, and will continue to thrive as a major part of Olivet's curriculum.

Leading the Way
Business

The business department of Olivet was located on the third floor of Burke Administration building. The business department advanced in the areas of education, computer integration, and campus and community involvement. In the area of education, the classes challenged the students with serious discussion in class and group meetings outside of class. The computer integration advancement involved lab sessions which helped the students learn and understand the rapid changes of technology and technological skills. Olivet's business department knew that computer skills would be imperative in the business world and having knowledge in this field will give the students the skills they need to be successful. Community and campus involvment were enhanced through clubs. These allowed the students to experience hands-on learning. Students in Free Enterprise (S.I.F.E.) helped connect students with the people of the community, while the Business Club was active in student life.

The most important part of the business department was taking faith and integrating it with situations that may be faced in the real world.

The Elements of Study
Chemistry

Hours and hours of lab work, reading, and research can only mean one thing: a chemistry major.

Olivet offers a major and a minor in chemistry that will give students a basic understanding of chemistry and prepare them for specific careers or further studies.

A degree in chemistry has its rewards, but definitely takes a great amount of dedication and devotion to a cause. Countless hours are spent working in labs and listening to lectures in Reed Hall of Science. In addition, many hours of study must be put forth outside of the classroom. After receiving a degree, a door is opened to graduate studies for careers in chemistry, biochemistry, chemical engineering, and medicine.

The faculty of the Chemistry Department is made up of Dr. Douglas Armstrong, Dr. Larry Ferren, Dr. John Hanson, and Dr. Xinyu Li, who all work together to make the learning process appropriate and useful to each individual student. Education is placed on a more personal level.

Here at Olivet, although the main focus of the Chemistry Department may be the study of matter, its composition, properties, and reactions, a greater emphasis is placed upon developing self-discipline and learning how to cooperate and work with others.

Crazy for Computers
Computer Science

The 1998-99 school year has been a challenging, yet exciting one for Olivet's Computer Science Department. This year two lone professors have held down the Department. Dr. Larry Vail, who normally chairs the Department, is on sabbatical leave, teaching at the African Nazarene University in Kenya. As a result, Dr. Catherine Bareiss is acting as departmental chair, while instructor Dr. David Starkey helps ease the class load. When asked about the benefits of the Computer Science major, Dr. Bareiss said that their majors go on to earn some of the highest salaries of ONU graduates. However, Dr. Bareiss observes that more important advantages include building relationships with other computer science majors. "The department is like one big happy family," Dr. Bareiss said. Junior Jeff Randolph agreed, "(I like) the whole atmosphere of everyone in the department. The lab is like a family group."

Touching Tomorrow Education

"Get involved as much as you can with anything having to do with children." (Senior Sara Fleeman)

Education is one of the most sought out academic divisions at Olivet Nazarene University. Students in the education field are trained for teaching in pre-school, elementary, and secondary schools. The Division of Education has three departments: education, physical education, and library science. The Education Division is responsible for all teacher programs at Olivet. The division head of education is Dr. Thomas Knowles. Other professors of education are Professor Dale Oswalt, Dr. Francis Reed, Dr. Sara Spruce, Professor Marla Streit, and Dr. H. Stanton Tuttle. The education office is located at the north side of Benner Library.

Being prepared and becoming involved are two fundamentals of student teaching, according to Senior Sara Fleeman. "Get involved as much as you can with anything having to do with children. Also, be ready with practicums and take initiative in the classroom," Fleeman said.

Window into the Future
Engineering

The Engineering Department, under the direction of Dr. Ivor Newsham, is experiencing much growth and change this year. The department added three adjunct professors to their staff. Professor Mikel Ferri, Professor Kevin Brown, and Professor Michael Gingerich joined the engineering team to allow full-time professors additional time to prepare a document that will enable the department to become accredited. Dr. Newsham and the rest of the faculty hope to attend a self-study course this summer, with a visit from the accreditaton board in the fall of 1999. New computers, carrying Windows NT work stations, were installed which will allow new software to be used. The Engineering Department is being tested with these computers in its area, with hopes to install them all across campus in the years to come. "It's really a great opportunity to be allowed to have these new computers and it works out well with the growing number of students we are acquiring," Dr. Newsham said.

Forty new students entered the program this fall, compared to thirty last year. Dr. Newsham explains, "It is so important that we get an accreditation so our students can leave with a recognized professional title." The department is involved with three national organizations that keep them up-to-date with the changing world of engineering. Through these organizations students are able to become involved in clubs, such as Olivet's own Engineering Club, and are encouraged to seek work off campus.

Making Things Great
Family and Consumer Science

"I am optimistic about the direction in which the department and the club is headed and I hope it can make an impact on others."
-Diane Ritter, President, S.A.F.C.S.

The Family and Consumer Science Department is always looking toward the future. Available majors include: Family and Consumer Sciences, Dietetics, Fashion Merchandising, Housing and Environmental Design, and Family and Consumer Science Education. Currently, there are about thirty students in the depatment. The Student Association of Family and Consumer Sciences, is another exciting part of this department. S. A. F. C. S. is an organization open to all Family and Consumer Science majors and this year the organization has many new events planned. Since one of the main goals of the Family and Consumer Science profession is to unify individuals both in and outside of the career, S. A. F. C. S. organized a service project. The goal of this project is to connect students to the community and also to empower individuals and families to live life to the fullest of their potentials. Other S. A .F. C. S. activities involve coordinating an annual fashion show, carmel apple sales, and a student web page day. This Department is not concerned with making things good; they are concerned with making things great!

Breaking New Ground
Geology

Geology is an area of study that is always changing. In fact, the Geology Department of Olivet graduated their largest class this past spring, proving that people have a growing interest the world of nature. "We are looking for students who want a career that is personally and societally satisfying, as well as financially rewarding," explains Professor Max Reams. The Geology Department is located in the Reed Hall of Science and is experimenting with Windows NT operating systems. Several new pieces of software are now being used that enable students to launch into serious geological computer applications. Technology is not all that was added to the department, though. Professor Brock Schroeder in now a full-time faculty member in geology and director of the planetarium.

It is estimated that 60% of the students that graduate from this major go on to graduate schools. Those that don't pursue a higher level of education have been very successful in finding work in environmental and petroleum fields. Professor Reams says, "several elementary and secondary teachers have emphasized in geology in order to find a teaching position in an otherwise tight market."

Students are able to travel and experience more if they take advantage of the Olivet Geology Society (OGS). They advance with the major and take several field trips to practice what is learned in the class room. Clearly the Geology Department should be proud of all their accomplishments.

Count On Us
Mathematics

Dr. David Atkinson is chair of the Olivet Nazarene University Mathematics Department and is leading a team of committed professors and students into the future of math. This year approximately forty students are either math majors or minors. Dr. Stephen Brown, Dr. Daniel Green, and Dr. Dale Hathaway teach alongside of Dr. Atkinson to provide high quality Christian math cirriculum to Olivet students. In the spring semester of 1999, the Math Department adopted a new freshman seminar into their program. Dr. Hathaway explained that this seminar would help to soften the transition into higher level math courses. ONU's math students develop their skills through in-depth problem solving and through group and individual projects. Students of the Math Department know that they can count on each other and on their professors to make their academic experience the very best.

Sing Your Heart Out
Music

"In the Music Department we are closely connected. We do a lot together and so it's as if we're family." (Senior Carrie Burton)

The Music Department of Olivet Nazarene University is seeking to produce students who are knowledgable and therefore successful in the careers of their choice. Music majors have a variety of performing options from which to choose. These include things like Orpheus Choir, University Singers, and an annual performance of Handel's Messiah. The Department strives to give students opportunities to put into practice the theories they learn for the purpose of personal, professional, and academic growth. Courses include work in diction, aural skills, and music theory.

The Music Department is chaired by newcomer Professor Don Reddick, but he is far from alone in leading music students. Dr. Gerald Anderson, Prfoessor Martha Dalton, Dr. Timothy Nelson, Dr. George Dunbar, and Professor Ruth Eimer all work together to provide students with quality curriculum. Who knows if the students of Olivet's Music Department will one day be heard on our very own WONU? # Truly taking care Nursing

From the first day of the semester, nursing majors hit the ground running. From reading chapters to developing care plans, the nursing department keeps it's students busy.

The biggest element that sets nursing apart from other majors is the clinicals that start sophomore year at Americana Nursing Home. Junior and senior year clinicals are split between Provena St. Mary's Hospital and Riverside Hospital. These clinicals are "practices" for the theory being taught that semester. Subjects covered range from pediatric to psychiatric nursing, to prepare students to take the N-CLEX test upon graduation.

Nursing Students in Action (NSA) is becoming involved in campus and community activities such as running the blood drive, and parish nursing. Contrary to popular belief, nursing students do more than study and they hope to show this during the 1998-1999 school year.

The Nursing Department was introduced to new technology in the psychiatric learning resource center. A grant of $57,983 from the Helene Fuld Trust allowed them to create a new lab that includes a media center.

Political Science

Theodore Roosevelt once said, "It is better to dare and fail than to live in the great divide where there is neither victory nor defeat," and though it may have been meant to justify his philosophy of walking softly and carrying a big stick, his words reach much further. The Political Science Department is one of many at Olivet. Whether discussing Plato's Allegory of the Cave in Political Science 101 or attempting to disprove the same in Senior Seminar, Political Science is a fascinating department that keeps students glued to the edge of their seats. Political Science entails the study of governments and the political forces that create them. Also, thanks to Olivet, the Political Science Department gives credit to God who created the free will which governs government. Olivet has three great God-fearing professors: Dr. Stephen Lowe, Dr. David Van Heemst, and chair, Dr. William Dean.

Think About It
Psychology

The Psychology Department is the second largest academic department on the campus of Olivet. The professors of the Psychology Department are excited about the continued growth of the department and the almost overwhelming number of students interested in this field. The Department is led by its chair Dr. William Bell, and five other dedicated professors. "Forty-one psychology majors were listed in the graduation program in May of 1998, which was the second highest number for traditional undergraduate majors," explained Dr. Bell. Of those 41 graduates, many went on to graduate school to specialize in one of approximately 30 fields available in Psychology. Many schools sought out Olivet students interested in Doctoral Programs.

"Forty-one psychology majors were listed in the graduation program in May of 1998, which was the second highest number for traditional undergraduate majors. (Dr. Bell)

This past year a Master of Arts in Professional Counseling was added to the program and the first class of sixteen graduated in May of 1998. Also, the Department recently made a revision in the course requirements in order to offer a Counseling Psychology class. This class meets the Illinois state requirements for licensed psychologists.

It's in Our Hands
Social Work/Sociology

The Department of Social Work and Sociology has a wide variety of careers open to its majors. Social Work/Sociology majors have the possibility of jobs in fields ranging from public health to child welfare and everything in between. Most students who major in this field leave Olivet knowing their education will take them where they want to go. "Our students are working in a variety of social service agencies, both public and private. Those who are not working are in graduate schools of social work, law, or psychology," explained Professor Micheal LaReau. Professor LaReau, along with Professors Janice Hackinsmith and Kent Olney, teach the classes in this feild. The program has been accredited now for about two years. Since that time there has been a great increase in the number of students interested in Social Services. This department generates the fifth largest number of student credit hours on Olivet's campus. This year the department changed their course requirements and added three new classes. In addition "Professor Olney is finishing his doctoral dissertation dealing with the sociology of the deaf church and the work of Rev. Phillip Hasenstab," LaReau said. These changes and the support of many national organizations makes the Social Work/Sociology Department more inviting to prospective students.

Preparing for the Ministry

Religion

Religion Division offers four specific departments to students

The Division of Religion is composed of four departments: Biblical Literature, Christian Education, Theology, and Philosophy. The Division of Religion prepares students for professional ministry or graduate studies to gain skills and knowledge of the different areas of religion.

The Religion Division is located in the Burke Administration Building and the division head is Dr. Robert Branson. Other professors include: Dr. John Bowling, Dr. William Bray, Dr. Ron Dalton, Dr. Craig Keen, Professor Russell Lovett, Dr. Larry Murphy, Dr. Robert D. Smith, Dr. Richard Thompson,and Professor David Wine. Junior Ben LaPlace said this about his professors' presentation of the material, "I like the way they teach us to dig into the Word and base everything on the Bible," LaPlace said. # Speech Communication Words like rhetoric, impromptu, interpersonal, extemporaneous, and pontification are all too familiar to students of Speech Communication. Having the reputation for being one of the more lively departments, Olivet Nazarene University's Speech Communication Department is always growing and moving forward. Chaired by Dr. Jay Martinson, the Speech Department offers many opportunities to majors. Whether it is an internship at Fox Television Station in Chicago, working with Today's Christian Radio 89.7 FM WONU, participating in the annual Speech contest, working in small organizational groups, or preparing a persuasive campaign, ONU's Speech Communication is all about hands-on, top-notch training. In pursuit of scholarly excellence the department recently began a Communication Honors Program and now have an offical chapter in Lambda Pi Eta.

The department has four concentrations: General, Film Studies, Journalism, or Broadcasting. Even with four concentrations, the Speech Communication Department is a tight-knit group. In fact, knowing how much the students love to be together, Professor Beth Patrick organized a kick-off party for all Speech majors at the beginning of the school year which proved to be a huge success. Speech majors can't get together and not have fun.

By Amy Boone-Tallman & Michelle Reddy

The Leaders of the Future
R. O. T. C.

A trained and ready Army has as its foundation competent and confident leaders. Reserve Officers Training Corps (R.O.T.C.) develops such leaders through a dynamic process consisting of three equally important pillars: Institutional Training, Operational Assignments, and Self-Development. With Institutional Triaining, the Army understands the importance of a good education and is willing to make that investment in those individuals displaying the qualities and values of a leader. In Operational Assignments, R.O.T.C. is no different from the active Army. Students participate in activities such as rappelling, land navigation, handgrenades, and air mobile exercises. With Self Development, the Army holds to this principle: Know Yourself and Seek Self Improvment. Leaders in our Army have many challenges. They must take care of soliders' needs, develop them into cohesive teams, train them under tough and realistic conditions to demanding standards, assess their performance, assist them with their personal and professional growth, and reward them for their successes. To meet that challenge, our leaders must be competent and confident in their ability to lead. R.O.T.C. was developed to meet that challenge.

by Paul Cote, Army, R.O.T.C, Training Officer

Dr. Cindy Li

Q: What is your official title?
A: Assistant Professor in Geology and Chemistry.
Q: How long have you worked at Olivet?
A: Three years.
Q: What was the best part of your job?
A: Interacting with students. Learning about their background, and personalities. I really appreciate each one of them. I enjoy the opportunity to share with them some subjects I like myself.
Q: If you could give students one word of advice what would it be?
A: Compassion and understanding are keys to life.
Q: What is one thing you think people might not know about you?
A: When I was a teenager, I wanted to become a nun. I also have two beautiful childeren, Grace (4 and a half years old), Jeffery Samuel (4 months old). I used to do a lot more hiking, photographing, and playing tennis before I had my children. Now I try to find time to read materials on God's love.

Dr. Stephen Lowe

Q: What is your official title?
A: Associate Professor of History.
Q: How long have you worked at Olivet?
A: I am completing my sixth year at ONU.
Q: What was the best part of your job?
A: Working with such outstanding colleagues and students and of course, the schedule.
Q: If you could give students one word of advice what would it be?
A: Develop patience and try not to be too anxious for the future. In other words, do your best to enjoy the current circumstances in which God has led you.
Q: What is one thing you think people might not know about you?
A: I play the bass guitar to relax after a long day. I spend thousands of hours researching and writing about sports history. I also indulge in a foot-long Spicy Italian sandwich from Subway every Suday night after chruch.

Professor Dale Oswalt

Q: What is your official title?
A: Assistant professor of education
Q: How long have you worked at Olivet?
A: This is my second year at ONU.
Q: What was the best part of your job?
A: By far, the best thing about my job is the interaction with my students. They really want to make a difference in the lives of their future students as they prepare for the teaching profession.
Q: If you could give students one word of advice what would it be?
A: Don't ever get too busy for Jesus; try to work your devotions into your schedule. By developing a relationship with Him you'll learn the truth and the truth will set you free.
Q: What is one thing you think people might not know about you?
A: I came to Olivet as a undergrad in 1976, and my first semester I decided to quit. My advisor found out and talked me into staying one more semester. That 10 minute meeting changed my life. Now I'm in a position to return what was given to me. Who says the Lord doesn't use people to carry out His work!

Professor Jeffery Wells

Q: What is your official title?
A: Assistant Professor of Speech Communication.
Q: How long have you worked at Olivet?
A: Five years.
Q: What was the best part of your job?
A: The opportunity to serve God, interact with students, and create art at a place that is so very supportive of my work.
Q: If you could give the students one word of advice what would it be?
A: After developing a strong relationship with God, truly try to develop an appreciation of learning and knowledge, not just for grades or a degree, but for the sake of knowledge. Continue as a student after you leave Olivet.
Q: What is one thing you think people might not know about you?
A: I made public relations appearances for a local television station in Nashville as a big penguin called "Snowbird." He was kind of like Sesame Street's "Big Bird."

Noel Whitis

Q: What is your official title?
A: Director of Media and Technical Support
Q: How long have you worked at Olivet?
A: 5 years
Q: What was the best part of your job?
A: I have the best of all worlds. I work with faculty, students, curriculum, and special events on campus in a Christian atmosphere. It is exciting to see how techonology is changing our world and to be a part of using technology to better prepare Olivet students for the future.
Q: If you could give the students one word of advice what would it be?
A: Take advantage of the good liberal arts education here at Olivet. In this day and age you never know where the Lord will place you. When I left Olivet in 1967, I never dreamed I would be returning.
Q: What is one thing you think people might not know about you?
A: I collect 1945 John Deere farm machinery. I recently have taken up raising oxen.

To the class of 1999:

You will soon graduate from Olivet Nazarene University. You have paid a price in both discipline and dollars for your education and I congratulate each of you on your accomplishments.

As you leave Olivet, you set sail to distant destinations. Most of your life will be spent in the new millennium, a world in which life may be quite different than it is today. But you need not go alone on this journey, for the One who is forever true and faithful will go before you and will go with you.

I challenge you to live a life worthy of your calling in Christ Jesus. Don't be a clone of culture, but set your sights on things above. You are called to make a life, not just a living-- to fulfill a destiny, not just to make a dollar. I encourage you to not only pursue happiness, but also usefulness-- to seek the good, the true, the beautiful, the eternal.

You are the dawn of tomorrow, the heart and soul of a new generation. This world needs you.

You leave us, the faculty and staff of Olivet behind-- we cannnot go with you, nor should we try. But we shall continue to watch you, pray for you, support you, and love you as you go.

Live nobly. Think great thoughts. Dream great dreams. Do great deeds. Never give up, knowing that with God nothing shall be impossible. Above all, hold fast to the knowledge of Jesus Christ and God will hold fast to you.

Top Ten Reasons to Graduate

Crazy run-in's with Security because you parked your "purple" car in the "gold" sticker lot.

First Tuesday of the month, "RrrrrrrRrrrrrrrRrrrrrrrRrrrrr."

No more stuffing bags of trash in your closet every Wednesday at 9:30a.m..

What's with that cold Marriot food, didn't you just see them take it out of the oven?

No more chapels, "May you go in peace."

Chris Crimmins, Mark Jordi, Jeff LaFave, Jeremy Selvidge, and Robert Droese get ready for the main event--life. Go get 'em tigers!

What's with this book for $165? It was just at Barnes and Noble for $20.

Open dorms, anytime, all the time.

Coming in at 1:05a.m. and still keeping your twenty-five dollars.

Goodbye work study, hello real world. Real house, real car, real furniture, real food...

Four words, "shaking Dr. Bowling's hand."

I know what you did last summer. . .

Scott Armstrong
Australia

Every Sunday, Scott and three other students led the worship services of a lot of different churches with different cultural backgrounds. During the week, he and the other students did a Bible study. They also worked at a kids' camp. Scott quotes "I prayed more than ever and I stepped out of my comfort zone. Each time the Lord was faithful to give me more strength than I ever wanted." Scott realized that it was a tough summer, but he learned a lot and it confirmed his call to missions.

David Knudson
Wisconsin

David spent his summer in Green Bay, WI, working with the youth at the Church of the Nazarene, under the direction of Pastor Ron Thick. For David, the process was just as faith-building and rewarding as his ministry. He trusted God in providing a job in which he would be able to earn enough money to be a youth pastor as well. Romans chapters 7 & 8 are verses that demonstrate the transformation that took place in David's life. David was able to show the youth group in Green Bay how to live through Christ and was blessed in the process. He also learned the importance of relationships.

Emily Kortaneck
India

Traveling with Youth In Mission, Emily went to Washim, a city in the center of India. For seven weeks the nine-person crew painted, held youth services, Bible studies, and cared for the health needs. At Reynolds Memorial Hospital, Emily assisted in a tubal ligation surgery. This trip confirmed her call to be in full time international mission work. The best part Emily said was learning "about the servant nature of Christ and getting past the language barrier."

Jeff Lafave

Michigan-Arkansas-Louisiana-Georgia-Michigan-Missouri

This summer Jeff worked with Evangelist Stephen Manley, by helping him with youth and children. One thing that impacted Jeff was observing the diversity of the churches. He feels like he has a higher standard for Biblical teaching as a result and appreciates the example Stephen Manley lives. Manley practices what he preaches. The hardest part for Jeff was building relationships with the kids and saying goodbye.

Leadership

senior class council

Our class is one who has school spirit and stands out above others. We have strong student leaders who initiate and organize events to create enthusiasm and participation among the class as well as the student body. One of my favorite events was the Jr./Sr. Banquet which we hosted for the class of 1998 at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. A lot of time and preparation went into this evening. Other events included: the Fall Fest, a late bowl, Mancino's Night, and dinner with a professor. It was fun to see the final results as everything came together. The senior class seemed to enjoy their evening, which made it worth all of the hard work.

This year I am excited to see our class come together a final time, through activities such as a lock-in and a winter retreat, to promote unity. I've enjoyed the leadership position and being involved on campus. Through these experiences, I feel I have made life-long friends. Not only do we have fun with each other, we take accountability seriously and have helped each other to grow in Christ.

Questions & Answers
Matt Cox

Q: Where are you from?

A: Since my parents are missionaries, I was born in Chile and lived there for 10 1/2 years; I've lived in Ecuador since then.

Q: How has this experience left an impact on your life?

A: Being an MK has given me a broader perspective of the world. I've grown up with my eyes open to the problems and needs in the world. That is really the reason why I want to be a missionary myself.

Q: Would you like to go back to Ecuador?

A: Yes, I could easily get back into that culture, but I am open to God's will.

Questions & Answers
Tracy Moore

Q: What did you do this summer?
A: I was a counselor at a non-denominational, inner-city Christian camp.
Q: How did this experience influence who you are?
A: It's changed me, and I feel like I could do that the rest of my life.
Q: What was the best part?
A: My walk with Christ deepened during the five weeks. I was able to give 100% attention to the kids all of the time with Christ on my side.
Q: Will you keep in contact with the kids?
A: Yes, I get to follow up on the kids throughout the year.

Questions & Answers
Jamy VanSyckle

Q: What did you do this summer?
A: I went with Youth in Missions to work at a homeless shelter in Los Angeles called St. Vincent's Cardinal Manning Center.
Q: What did your work include?
A: I got to know the people by giving out food and helping them type resumes.
Q: What is one thing that you learned over the summer?
A: I learned to build relationships with people; that is how you win them to Christ. One quote that I reflect on a lot is from St. Francis of Assisi, "Always preach the gospel, and, if necessary,use words."

Alone

by Tim Dickinson

I stand here,
in flesh all alone.
My heart is destroyed,
I'm stripped to the bone.
I sit in the square,
with light on each side.
Yet it cannot penetrate,
my fear down inside.
Only love can help,
but that I'll never get.
I hand out my heart,
but I always regret.
I am full of pain,
an open sore.
Yet all I get,
is more, more, more.
I am scared to trust,
I am scared to love.
It always flies away,
like a frightened dove.

A Call to Ministry

Tim George

Major: Religion

Minor: Theater

Hometown: West Allis, WI

Interests: Volleyball, acting, making people happy

Q: When did you receive your call to the ministry?
A: "My call to the ministry occurred December 18, 1997. It happened late at night in Kelley Prayer Chapel. There the Lord spoke to me for some time into the wee hours of the night. He reminded me of the joy I experience when I am telling people about Jesus. I realized proclaiming the Word was more important to me than any of my other interests, and my life could never be fulfilling without accepting the responsibility God was calling me into on that night. With many tears I stood at the pulpit in Kelley and accepted His call to ministry."

Q: What are some of the times you have been given to speak?
A: "Just recently I was given the chance to preach at a revival at Aroma Park. I have also preached at my home church, and at another church in my community. The other day, I was also asked to lead a teen retreat in Indiana for the spring semester. I am excited that the Lord has blessed me with opportunities to gain experience."

Q: What are some of your goals/plans for the future?
A: "My goals for the future include getting married to Jen Schultz, and finding a church to call home. At Olivet my goals are to be His minister. Every year, I have tried to be in some kind of ministry. My freshman and sophomore years I have been involved in Omega Drama Ministries. For my remaining years I want to continue to present the Word to people, whether through Omega or another area."

Overseas in Israel

Krista Streight

Q: Why did you go on the missions trip to Israel?
A. "When I was in junior high I received the call into some sort of missions. Since then I have been waiting for an opportunity to go on a missions trip. When I heard about the Israel trip, I knew that I wanted to go."

Q: What were your emotions when leaving for the trip?
A: "This was my first time leaving the United States. I was a little nervous because of all the problems and tensions going on in Israel, but I had total confidence that I would be safe and God would take care of me."

Q: What had the biggest impact on you?
A: "The biggest thing that impacted me while I was in Israel was the peaceful serenity. Even among the "noisy" city life, I still felt a certain peace. Maybe it was just knowing that I was where Jesus walked, or maybe I was taking a break from fast-paced America."

Q: What are some of the lessons you learned in Israel?
A: "Some lessons that I learned from the people of Israel and the trip in general are: flexibility, compassion, generosity, openness, and humility. I praise and thank God for making it possible for me to go on the trip."

Meet the President

Corey T. Wilson

Q: What made you decide to run for class president?

A: I've kept my ear to the issues, and I wanted to get involved.

Q: Why do you feel it's important for students to get involved with extracurricular activities?

A: It's a fantastic experience to be a part of a team. It teaches you professionalism and how to get along with all different types of people.

Q: What do you want the freshman class to remember about you?

A: That anyone could come to me about anything.

Q: What are your plans for this year's freshman class?

A: Raise funds so that we have the backing for events we will sponsor in the future.

Q: What is it that makes you special?
A: I'm the lead singer in a Christian hard-core/punk band, called Transit.
Q: What is the purpose of your band?
A: To reach as many people as possible, and to tell them about God.
Q: What is it that makes your band so different?
A: We thank God for everything, and will do whatever God wants us to do. If all we ever do are basement shows, that's fine with us, as long as people are hearing about God.

On the Cutting Edge

WONU

WONU, a completely digital and state of the art radio station, spread ministry at Olivet through Christian radio. The year started with a new program, "The Dorm." Students could listen to its upbeat Christian Music through the ONU cable channel three.

WONU broadcasted to small towns on its "On the Road Again Tour." In addition to expanding the listening area, the Tour also allowed WONU to participate in concerts and parades. One highlight of the Tour was the Wizard of Oz parade in Chesterton, Indiana.

The radio station staff attended several events, including "Diamond Fun in the Sun," a softball game sponsored by the Chicagoland Christian Media Fellowship. This fellowship includes the Total Living Network, WMBI, Christianity Today Inc., and WONU.

Servants In Their Field

SAFCS

The Students Association of Family and Consumer Science (SAFCS) started off on the right track this year. Their motto is "All for One, and One for All!"

Their goal is to prepare students in the Family and Consumer Science division for Christ-centered service to all types of individuals, families, and communities. They do this by empowering members to act on continuing concerns, helping them focus their expertise for action on critical issues, and assuming leadership among organizations with mutual purposes.

One thing that helps them do this is their theme Scripture verse. It comes from ICorinthians 12: 27-31: "Now you are the body of Christ, and each of you is a part of it. And in the church God has appointed first of all apostles, second prophets, third teachers, then workers of miracles, also those having gifts of healing, those able to help others, those with gifts of administration, and those speaking in different kinds of tongues... but eagerly desire the greater gifts."

One of the many successful events for this club included "Homecoming for Kids," which provided a food and nutrition lesson for several children. Beyond Homecoming, the year for SAFCS was very successful.

Outreached Hand
Diakonia

This year, Diakonia held their annual retreat the weekend of October 31. Many new faces, as well as old ones, gathered and headed to Bloomington/Normal for the first official group gathering. The social work club this year sponsored the car wash, neccessities drive, and many other charitable activities.

The club experienced some changes this year when the council members all changed. The new leaders are proving they have what it takes to keep the club going. Getting involved with the community off campus, as well as the community on campus, has been important this year. For the most part, members of the group are social work majors, and what they learn in class, they carry with them to the meetings. The students in Diakonia, as well as faculty sponsors, Jan Hockensmith and Micheal LaReau, have developed a close bond with each other. They firmly believe the students have a heart for the club. Sharing and caring is a large part of the group. The community is very appreciative of the group, and in turn, the group enjoys working with the community.

Environmental Awareness

O G S

Olivet Geological Society (O.G.S.) is a university club that was started to promote new interest in the geological and environmental fields. The club consisted of a diverse group of students that came from many different majors and backgrounds. The main reason they all came together was their strong love for the natural world and the passion of introducing others to it. As a club they invited all to join them in their various activities and causes throughout the year.

O.G.S. developed more of an environmental emphasis; for instance, they did several community service projects to enhance and restore the local parks. Such activities included Earth Day clean-ups and a prairie restoration project at Perry's Farm. They felt as Christians they were to be stewards of everything that God gave them, and this included the awesome creation that surrounds them.

Along with this service project theme they also incorporated numerous trips and outings. During these inspiring times they went on spelunking, camping, hiking, canoeing, and biking quests together. These were times when new friendships were made and existing ones were strengthened.

Giving To Many

NSA

Nursing Students in Action (NSA) was an organization comprised of many of the Olivet nursing students. While this organization was not always in the spotlight, they accomplished many things.

The highest profile activity by NSA was the blood drive, which is sponsored each semester in conjunction with the local American Red Cross. During the blood drive this fall, 101 units of whole blood were collected.

This fall, NSA began a new program that was still in its infancy, the parish nursing initiative. Under the direction of senior O.J. Kendall, the initiative was started in order to augment the adult studies parish nursing class. This included nursing students going to local churches of varied denominations and taking blood pressures and blood glucose levels. Olivet student nurses performed this community service as far north as Morris and as far south as Clifton.

In November, the NSA helped sponsor the second annual "Top Cops vs. Top Docs" basketball game in conjunction with the Four Rivers Chapter of the Alzheimers Association. The doctors avenged last year's loss by winning by three points. All proceeds from the game benefit the services provided by the Alzheimers Association.

During the year, NSA raised money through a variety of means. The NSA sold Olivet nursing sweatshirts, ONU keychains, candy, and even attended a healthy cookware presentation to raise money. The money will be used, in part, to purchase items for the nursing department that aid in the educational process.

Culturally Aware

PDC

Phi Delta Castle is currently one of the active club at Olivet. The original goals of this group were simple: observe architecture and culture in its natural elements.

The original founders of Phi Delta Castle set aside their summer for road trips to historical architectural sites. After viewing various architecture both inside and out, they would then shift their focus to the cultural aspect of each location. Cultural elements consisted of cuisine, music, and art.

Tradition of the club was continued. This year's group not only set aside their spring break, but also their summer break for club activities. Travel ranged from such locations as: Dublin, Ireland, Memphis, Tennessee, New Orleans, and Washington D.C. They were able to observe fine architecture and superb craftsmanship.

New Orleans was a popular stop not only for the rich architecture but also for its extraordinary culture. The home of jazz lived up to its billing. Jason Root said, "I fell in love with New Orleans. It holds so much history. The food was good, too. It's no White Castle, but the Cajun cuisine was exquisite."

Overall, the organization's members labeled this year a success, and were pleased with their experiences. Phi Delta Castle cannot wait until next year to take their yearning for architecture and culture overseas.

Out In the Community

SEA

Since its beginning in 1958, Student Education Association (SEA) has undergone many changes, and this year was no exception. In the past, the focus of SEA was to provide activities for the whole student body. This year that focus was changed. Lyndsi Wisher, president of SEA, stated, "This year SEA is aimed more toward helping the community and getting education majors out there for hands-on experience, while having fun in the process."

To put their classroom knowledge to use, SEA planned activities that allowed students to practice their skills in the surrounding area. Not only did this benefit each student, but it benefitted the community.

Dr. Thomas Knowles, chairman of the Education Department, stated, "This year, the focus is definitely on providing opportunities for teacher education students to grow professionally in a way that goes beyond the classroom."

SEA has accomplished its goal by bringing in speakers from the community and hosting a monthly story time for children in the community. Although this year has been one of change for the Student Education Association, it has been a positive year marked by many improvements.

"That's not what I think!" "I don't think so!" "That's not right." If you had just heard all that, you might think it was someone arguing. That was what happened weekly on Olivet's campus. They were arguing about political views, moral issues, and ideas facing them every day, and it was okay that they argued. In leadership was Dr. David Van Heemst who sponsored the group. This was the Academy Club.

Leader, Nicole Given, said that we should not be kept in a bubble here on campus. She loved the idea of contrasting viewpoints. She said, "We exist for the explicit purpose of opening up the Christian mind."

Academy was also about making peacemakers and accepting that we all have differing views.

If you were on campus and happened to hear, "Whoa, that's not what I think," you probably just walked by an Academy meeting: gatherings where the mind was opened up to new possibilities.

Respecting Fine Works
Sigma Tau Delta

Sigma Tau Delta is an Olivet-based honors society. Each member meets all requirements of academic achievement, allowing them the honor of acceptance into the organization.

Members of the group got together and planned campus activities or took trips to the theater and other places. Also, Tau Theta, the international English honorary society, gave Olivet students the opportunity to sit in on a meeting in which Professor Jeremy Van Kley discussed his previous year spent in Uzbekistan.

The society as a whole sponsored a poetry reading as well as a scavenger hunt for Olivet students. The scavenger hunt, "Search for the Holy Grail," sent students running to businesses in the community to get clues and to perform crazy stunts. The hunt ended with a movie and pizza in Burke.

Members of Sigma Tau Delta traveled to Chicago to watch live performances of "Much Ado About Nothing," and "Death of a Salesman." Spending time together gave the members the ability to build friendships with students they might not otherwise have known.

Entrepreneurs At Work

SIFE

Students in Free Enterprise, or SIFE, was a student-led organization that had chapters in over 2000 colleges nationwide. SIFE's mission was to provide college students the best opportunity to make a difference and to develop leadership, teamwork, and communication skills through learning, practicing, and teaching the principles of free enterprise.

SIFE believed that experience was the best teacher and tried to provide students with a great opportunity for real-life, out-of-the classroom experience. Students had the opportunity to develop and participate in many different educational, entrepreneural, and community outreach projects.

Students presented their accomplishments at regional SIFE competition and hoped to move on to Nationals.

Current SIFE projects included Make-A-Difference Day, internet workshops, personal budgeting seminars, a meet and greet program for new area residents, and a retail security testing service to name a few.

Action-Packed Green Room

Lights! Camera! Action! Olivet's Green Room was in full action off and across campus. The campus' drama club was active both on and off campus. The club boasted about fifty members which included nine council members.

Some may wonder what the purpose of Green Room was. Member Kara Lloyd stated that Green Room's goal was, "... to share the love of the fine arts with the campus and community." One of the ways the group did this was by sponsoring a theater class at "ONYou: Homecoming for Kids." Green Room also sponsored a reader's theater-style play in the coffee shop for Christmas. President Tessa Waterbury said that, "We are excited to be helping out when the professional touring production of School House Rock comes in the fall; we may be doing some of the tech work for that show."

One example of a Green Room production was the very popular Broadway Revue. The night of its showing boasted a full auditorium of people who turned out on Family Weekend to take in the Revue. Green Room also put on a production of Sleepy Hollow at Perry Farm.

The reason these people got involved in Green Room was basically to meet other people, to get involved in something on campus, and, in the words of Joelle Heilemann, "To have a lot of fun in the meantime."

Telling the Story
Parable

The newest public relations group at Olivet this year was Parable. The group members were Jason Garret, Carrie Burton, Jocelyn French, Shannon Boyts, Thad Haynes, Shannon Wheeler, Jeremy Palinski, and Randy Scollan. Each member brought his or her own style to the group and really made it a well-rounded group by reaching out to different campers with great similarities. Also, each person has learned and grown from the other members with whom they have traveled.

Although primarily signed on as a part-time group, Parable has still traveled a great deal, and in no way did their mission differ, effort-wise, from the other three groups. Carrie Burton said, "Even though we're a part-time group, it doesn't mean we have a part-time mission." That was apparent when people looked back at all the places they have been and all the lives they had touched. Over the summer, Parable traveled to Jr. and Sr. High camps across the states of Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan. When asked why they gave all their time to P.R., they all simply answered, "That's where God wants me to be."

God Shines Through Olivetians

Throughout the past year, the ministry group the Olivetians, has spread the Word and love of God to all ages throughout the ONU region.

The Olivetians, which consisted of eight full-time students at Olivet, began their summer by coming to campus for a week and a half in order to learn the musical repertoire for the year.

Soon after, they traveled to seven junior and senior high district camps where they shared their faith with the youth of the area.

Each weekend, members spent their time traveling to different churches where they provided music ministry for traditional and youth services, as well as for many revivals and special occasions.

Clearly, countless amounts of time and energy were put into this ministry, but by watching the spirit of the members and the work of God shining through them, anyone could see that the benefits greatly outweighed any downfalls.

A Different Outlook
Joshua

This was a group with a different outlook on ministry. Their main goal of the summer was to reach out to people of all ages by working through song and speech. Who were they? They were Joshua, one of the four public relations groups on Olivet's campus.

This year, the six-member team traveled and performed at different District Assemblies across the region, instead of working with the junior and senior high camps as they had done in the past. Joshua was the only group to attend District Assemblies. They appeared in front of ten different districts across the Olivet region.

The members this year included: Joel Christie, Joshua Cobb, David Mills, Jay Sandbloom, Misty Wilson, and Brad Zehr. Together, the group showed an amazing ability to perform on as well as off the stage.

After having the privilege of spending an hour talking with the group about their ministry, I quickly realized that they all enjoyed attending the many different assemblies and getting to know some of the Olivet alumni better, while ministering in the name of Christ.

Seeing People Change

Vision

Vision, one of the music ministry groups, stood as an important medium for portraying Christ through performance and behavior in everyday life.

Each member of Vision put forth a shining example of what Christ's love truly existed as; therefore, those around them greatly benefitted from their ministry. However, the members have prevailed.

"The close relationships that I have developed with the other group members, and more importantly, the spiritual growth that I have obtained are some of the best parts of being in Vision," stated Jessica DeZwaan, sophomore.

Junior, Janielle Gregory summed up the experience of being in Vision by saying, "I've grown so much, learned so much, changed ideas about things, and worshipped differently than I ever have before. I'm at a totally different point spiritually than when I started. Praise God, that's probably what I needed."

Clearly, the power of ministry that Vision possessed cannot be summed up in one short article, but the love of and for Christ can be seen through their ministry.

Tradition of Excellence
Concert Band

Girls running around in long, black dresses, and young men dressed in black suits meant one thing... a performance by the Concert Band.

Olivet's Concert Band continued a tradition of excellence set in previous years.

Under the direction of Professor Don Reddick, who also served as the head of the music department, the concert band took on a number of new endeavors and continued traditions from the past.

A major part of being in Concert Band included cheering on the Tiger sports teams as a part of the pep band. Every home game, the players hauled their instruments over to McHie Arena or Ward Football Field to show their support.

This year, the band tried a new holiday venture. Players traveled around the Olivet region and blessed people with Christmas carols, which could be delivered to loved ones as a special gift for the season.

Freshman Jennifer Cochran commented, "I think that the carols were a great way to interact with others in the group. I guess it just gave us a chance to spend some more one-on-one time with other members."

In any event, the Concert Band definitely shone in the music department and will surely continue to do so in the future.

A Different Sound
Jazz Band

A casually dressed man smoothly walks across the stage snapping his fingers to the beat of a drum. A saxophone player wails out an improvisation as the audience applauds with awe and admiration. Absolutely no one can resist tapping his or her toes.

Under the direction of Eric Penrod, Olivet Nazarene University's Jazz Band pursued yet another great year. Some of the highlights included the annual Halloween concert, the homecoming concert, and the holiday program with the Concert Band.

Although being in Jazz Band requires many added hours of group and personal practice time, many members consider it to be one of their favorite classes in their often busy schedules.

Will Swardstrom, baritone saxophone player, commented, "Jazz Band is absolutely one of my favorite classes because the music and performances present a challenge, yet it is a very relaxed atmosphere. Jazz Band allows us to express ourselves in ways other classes don't afford."

Hopefully, the future will bring more opportunities for the players to showcase their talents and for the Band to establish a more prominent name across the campus.

ONU's Jazz Band will surely continue to throw out its tunes and the members will do their best to continue a tradition of excellence and provide entertainment for all.

Continuing the Legacy
Orpheus

"Welcome, welcome all of you. Glad you are with us. Shake hands. No need to be blue. Welcome to you." This was the song that returning Orpheus members sang at the beginning-of-the-year initiation party to welcome all of its new members. It was at that time that new members got the first taste of the familial feeling that comes with being in Orpheus. This unity was one of the main ingredients that allowed Orpheus to minister with the fervor and vigor that they do.

The Orpheus Choir agenda was filled to the brim from the end of August to the beginning of May. This itinerary included a retreat, Praise Gathering in Indianapolis, Indiana, Homecoming appearances, a variety show, Christmas chapel, two tours, a spring concert, and the Baccalaureate service, just to name a few. The choir held three rehearsals a week and sometimes additional practices or performances. Although the schedule was rigorous and, at times, hectic, it was rewarding all the same. Sam Ebnet said, "Hearing the harmonies and being able to sing under the direction of Dr. Dunbar made singing in Orpheus worth the time that was invested in it."

Orpheus Choir, in its 66th year will continue to be a legacy of ministry for years to come.

Showcasing Their Talent
University Singers

University Singers are a group with a mission to serve through song. With a team of 43 members, this group set out to minister to others through witness trips and performances. The year started out with an all-group retreat held at College Church.

Over the past year, University Singers went on a total of three tours - one in the fall and two in the spring. Council members decided the group needed to become more involved in the community, so during spring break, the choir traveled to Grand Rapids, Michigan, and worked with the people of the inner city.

New members, as well as old, shared a strong bond with each other. It seemed that the relationships created this year went beyond the walls of the choir room. "I am pleased by the diversity this year. We come from different backgrounds, but we come together for the same purpose: to serve the Lord," said Jen Schultz. The University Singers Choir was truly a choir of sharing and caring. Over the past year, the choir has developed into a strong family of students that care for each other and for God's ministry.

Making Things Happen

ASC

ASC (Associated Students Council) is comprised of representatives from the student body that strive to develop Christian leadership.

ASC president Brandon Williams chose the theme song title "Are You Gonna' Go My Way?" to represent this year's council. "We are following God's will as He asks us to go His way through life," said Williams.

Composed of twenty-five elected representatives, ASC had the desire to work and improve campus life for the students. ASC has sponsored Tiger Madness, the Homecoming Bonfire and pep rally, OctoberFest, Faculty Appreciation Week, and the Kurt Finkbeiner fast. In addition to these activities, this year's N.S.L.C. (Nazarene Student Leadership Conference) was hosted by Olivet.

Big Fun For Students
Social Committee

This year's Social Committee landed with their feet running. Its success was due to Stacia Seaton, the Vice President of Social Affairs, who worked in conjunction with Ron Hadley, the staff advisor.

This year's theme was "Big Fun 98-99," and that is exactly what Social Committee accomplished. It started with a retreat in Chicago, including dinner at the Rainforest Cafe, and a ride on the ferris wheel at Navy Pier.

The main project of Social Committee was to plan the Christmas Banquet. The theme was "An Evening At the Lodge: Christmas In Aspen." Other activities during first semester included Freaky, Frightening, Flick Night and a pizza party following a home basketball game. Activities for spring semester included Battle of the Sexes and Cupid's Corner.

Kelly Kraemer stated, "This was my first and only year to be in Social Committee, but I enjoyed it simply because of Stacia's leadership. She is someone I can only strive to be like."

Although extensive planning and intense work were required to provide activities for students on campus, Social Committee members always had "Big Fun" in the process.

Women's Residential Life has had a lot of fun this year. Our most exciting event during first semester was Homecoming Coronation. The girls on the council had a great time organizing and planning "A Walk in the Clouds" for the women of the Homecoming Court. Everything came together as planned, and the evening went smoothly, thanks to the women of WRL.

WRL had more plans for the next semester. One of the most exciting events was Mr. ONU, where Olivet's finest males competed for the coveted crown and title. This year, Mr. ONU was promoted more than ever before and had a great turnout.

This year was also a new start for Women's Residential Life. The title of the organization was Women's Residence Association until last year, and the 1998-99 school year was the first year with the new title. The new title also means a new role for WRL. We wanted to make life better for the women residents at Olivet. The council discussed ways to improve communication between students and faculty, and also planned a Women's devotional for second semester. WRL not only wanted to reach the residents of Olivet, but also wanted to make an impact on the community. Many of the girls on the council participated in the Christmas Toy Drive, and planned a clothing donation drive in the spring.

Men's Residential Life was not simply an organization, but rather a way of life at Olivet. This organization desired to break down bridges between the men of different classes, and to provide a sense of unity for all men on campus. It also allowed them to socialize in a non-academic environment designed for them to grow closer to each other. MRL attempted to take on a more pro-active role in the lives of Olivet's men.

Olivetians for Life, Olivet's pro-life group, started its third year of ministry this fall. OFL sought to educate the campus and the community about the history and tragedy of abortion, as well as euthanasia, infanticide and assisted suicide.

OFL participated in outreach ministry by working closely with the Living Alternatives Crisis Pregnancy Center. The center offered Christian-based counseling and pro-life alternatives for women facing crisis pregnancies. It also provided clothing, diapers, and formula to assist their clients. Since many OFL members volunteered at the Center, they had a chance to be a part of the solution to the abortion problem.

Olivetians For Life were also involved in a wide range of activities throughout the year. Some of these events included the annual Life Chain, Rock-for-Life, and Walk-for-Life fundraisers, and pro-life rallies, as well as video sessions to educate themselves about the abortion issue.

The main goal of OFL was to create awareness on the campus about the tragedy of abortion. Since abortion was legalized in 1973, there have been more than 35 million abortions. Through education, Olivetians for Life strived to send the message that we are a generation of abortion survivors.

One of International Club's major accomplishments was to start an annual Parade of Nations in which members represent various countries by wearing traditional attire from around the world. At this year's event, tables were set up with souvenirs from other countries so that the audience could get a glimpse of what the other countries were like.

Hard Work Paying Off

GlimmerGlass

Sitting on the couch looking at our newly organized workplace, I felt a spirit of refreshed hope and enthusiasm. This was going to be a year of exciting change and discovery for the newspaper. My mind was flooded with ideas and dreams.

All was made possible, thanks to my devoted and tenacious staff. Iola Noble was news editor, Doug Harbrueger- opinions editor, Jen Schultz- features editor, Gina Gottardo- spiritual life editor, Kelly Hayden- sports editor, Keely Long- arts editor, Natalie Chovancek- head photographer, Brad Curell- business manager, Dan Morrison- web page editor, and Craig Dockery- graphics editor.

Before the GG hits the stands, my editors were subjected to hour-long staff meetings, all-night layout deadlines, and any number of frustrations--writers who fall through, stories that don't happen, computer troubles, etc. Yet, the staff did their jobs faithfully and without complaint. Their hard work was paying off--people were reading the paper and enjoying it.

That's the point. We, the GlimmerGlass staff, were here to serve you, the student. We sought to make the paper a reflection of Olivet--your interests, concerns and activities. That was my dream and my vision.

Reflecting On a Year
Aurora

The Aurora staff grew dramatically this year. The members were close to each other on a personal level, as well as a professional level.

The staff was led by Mrs. Jill Bowling as faculty advisor and Merideth Densford as student editor. Everyone spent many hours together at the Bowling's home as well as in the office. "I really wanted everyone to get involved in their sections this year and to be proud of their work," stated Densford.

Late nights and a lot of pizza was nothing unusual to most of the staff. Many hours of writing stories, interviewing people, and cropping pictures were spent to make this yearbook great. There were many parties planned over the 1998-99 school year in which staff members could enjoy each others' company without all the stress of a deadline.

Working as a member of the staff takes up a lot of time, but it is time that later in life can be looked back on and enjoyed.

Female R. A.'s

A day in the life of a resident assistant was never normal. Trying to herd the men from the women's lobbies at curfew, play cops in the hallway at times, or deal with who stole the shower curtains, were all obstacles that were dealt with. It was the female R.A.'s who dealt with such things. These women were chosen through a lengthy and extensive process. All applicants had to fill out the expected paper work, turn in recommendation letters, and interview with resident directors. They were meant to be examples for all female residents.

Their responsibilities ranged from attending weekly meetings, to conducting nightly room checks, to upholding the rules and regulations.

These women were not all business though. They were also the female residents' friends and confidants. Some led S.A.L.T groups on their floors.

Being an R.A. was not always an easy or fun job, especially when trying to find who stole the shower curtains.

Male R. A.'s

It was the first week of school. You layed down to go to bed and heard this terrible noise from the hall. Everybody was looking out their doors and laughing because they knew that someone had set off the door alarm again.

The persons that had to take care of it were the R.A.'s. These guys did quite a bit for the men's resident halls on campus.

They were examples for all the men at Olivet. Their purpose was not served simply by enforcing rules. They were to be servants of Christ and to reflect a Christ-like life for the men on their floors.

From nightly room checks to making sure music wasn't too loud after quiet time to making certain the rooms were clean, R.A.'s had their work cut out for them. Resident Assistants were great friends and prayer partners. It may not have been the easiest job, but it was definitely rewarding.

Four years ago, if you had told the ONU football team that in the 1998 season they would be a national contender for the NAIA Championship, they would have laughed. Only four years ago, the Tigers finished the season 2-8 after another disappointing year. The program had hit rock bottom. That's when former ONU football player Mike Conway stepped in as head coach and began the rebuilding process. In his first two years as head coach, the Tigers had a combined record of 14-7. In 1997, the team shattered the record books and appeared in the first-ever Victory Bowl sponsored by the NCCAA. Coach Conway emphasized at the end of last year that the program had set higher goals for the 1998 season. These included a Mid-States West Conference championship, and a first-ever appearance in the NAIA national playoffs.

Football

The Tigers began the 1998 season with a loss to Azusa Pacific, a non-conference opponent from Azusa, California. Following the loss, the Tigers pieced together a seven-game winning streak, which broke last year's previous record of five. The highlight of the streak came against the number one-ranked Golden Tornados of Geneva College. The Tigers rose to the number four spot in the NAIA, prior to a heart-breaking loss to Taylor in front of a homecoming crowd. The loss cost the team the conference championship, but the Tigers weren't finished just yet. Following a win at McKendree, the team was invited into the NAIA playoffs for the first time in school history. After two emotional post-season wins on the road, the Tigers came home to beat Tri-State in the semifinal round. This season will be remembered as one of the greatest in school history.

Men's Soccer

The Olivet men's soccer team experienced a lot of ups and downs this season. Despite a disappointing record, the Tiger's team unity was never questioned.

Bringing in nine new players, the team was full of fresh, new talent. Eight of these new players were freshmen. Senior and captain Matt Kreitzer stated, "The freshmen did an excellent job of adapting to a college style of soccer and contributing to the team." Although the team's record of 4 wins and 12 losses was a disappointment, the men never lost faith in each other as a team. Kreitzer added, "Despite a tough season, we developed a sense of chemistry among the team over the course of the year. Even though the outcomes of the games were not as we had hoped, the team was enjoyable to play with."

With the experience acquired this season, next year the team will have a lot of potential. Junior midfielder Andrew Hall commented, "A promising '99 season still lies ahead. We learned from great leadership provided by our seniors, and thank them for four great seasons."

Off the field, the women dared to become a part of each others' day to day lives. The effect of their team unity was apparent even during meal times as their laughs, pranks, and chatter never ceased. Sophomore Stephanie Decker said, "How beautiful it was to never feel obligated to be together. No one ever had to force us together. Thus, we were a true team."

The 1998 Women's volleyball season can be summed up in one word- intense. According to senior Heather McMillan, the Lady Tigers played a tough schedule as they faced several regionally and nationally ranked teams. "Every player had a specific role to fill for the team," said junior outside hitter Kim Ciba. Many contributions were made this season, not only from returning players, but also from several new additions to the team. Freshman Elizabeth Wiegers set a new all-time record for most blocks in a match this season. Other honors for the Tigers included NCCAA Scholar/Athlete Awards received by Seniors Heather McMillan and Sally Walters. Kim Ciba and Kylie Redman were named NCCAA All-District players, as well as earning CCAC Players of the Week honors on several occasions. The Lady Tigers ended the season with a record of 17-19. Olivet also played host to the NAIA National Championship Tournament, which was a tremendous honor for all who were involved.

This year, the Olivet cheerleading squad experienced many changes and improvements. The talented squad really helped to boost the spirit at all home football and basketball games.

At the end of last year's season, three captains were selected. These included senior Jill Newsome, senior Kara Warren, and junior Erin Field. The captains worked hard to bring life to this year's new talent. The squad consisted of fourteen women and three men. "Having a large number of squad members enhanced our potential as a squad. The numbers helped create new stunting possibilities," commented sophomore Holly Way. Among the improvements were the number of girls who could tumble. This added to the intensity of the routines. Also, the addition of three men gave the squad a little muscle. Freshman Aaron Reid stated, "Our squad has a lot of potential. Our greatest accomplishment this year was the homecoming routine. We worked very long, hard hours."

The only setback the squad seemed to experience was the number of injuries. Junior and captain Erin Field commented, "Even though there have been some injuries, we managed to pull together and work around them."

One of the highlights of the season was the trip to Southern Nazarene University in Oklahoma to cheer on the ONU basketball team. Senior and captain Jill Newsome stated, "It was a great opportunity to get to know each other better while supporting the Tigers at our sister school." Newsome also commented, " This is the most talented squad Olivet has seen in years. ONU cheerleading has a bright future ahead!"

Hard work, dedication, and confidence all lead to success. The Tiger basketball squad was very familiar with all of these terms. The numerous hours of practice, many drops of sweat, and the squeaks of their shoes on the court were evidence that the squad was working to improve themselves.

The Tigers had put several good seasons together, but the ultimate goal had still not been reached. They had made the trip to Oklahoma, however they had not returned with an NAIA National Championship. With Coach Hodge at the helm, some returning starters, and a few new weapons off the bench, the Tigers proved to be both exciting and entertaining as always.

According to Drew Neal, the 1998 team had a lot of talent, including many returning starters, and they were all looking forward to a challenging schedule. But of course, if you want to be the best, you must play the best and win. The Tigers hoped to do so and were a top contender this season.

Born to Run ...and shoot 3-pointers

While scrimmaging during practice, sophomore Angela Lorenz slashes her way to the hoop for two.

And that's what these girls did. Your 1998-1999 Tigers worked hard to have a fast-paced tempo this season. Not only that, but they had been focusing more on their outside game as well. The team had many returning players who could light it up from downtown as well as a few solid freshmen. Of this quicker pace, sophomore Diana Wendell said, "If we can control the tempo of the game by running with the ball, the teams with height won't hurt us as much, because they can't set an offense." Diana knew what she was talking about, because she was the girls' floor general this year at the point guard position. What the team lacked in stature, they made up for by working hard in the post for their points, as well as rebounds. This was Coach Doug Porter's first year at Olivet, and he brought a no-nonsense approach that the girls responded to well. They stayed intense and worked hard, whether in practice or in a game. He had prepared them well for what they seemed to have been born to do - run and shoot three-pointers.

The ONU men's tennis team charged into the 1998-99 season with great expectations. Newly added fall matches and a spring trip to Hilton Head, South Carolina prepared the team for another season full of championships. This year's team included newly added freshman Matt Banner, Ryan Miracle, John Welch, and Eric Willits, along with sophomore transfer David Harding. Returning lettermen Aaron Alyea, Kent Dinius, Andy Gibbs, team captain Craig Manes, and Kevin Stipp all returned with experience. The coaching staff included assistants Ron Hadley, Paul Dixon, and head coach Obie Coomer.

The 97-98 season proved to be the best ever for the tennis program as the regular season brought a record of 10-4. Hard fought victories and intense play characterized this team who's "never say die" attitude helped them to a record breaking season.

The highlight of last year's season came at its conclusion as the team earned the title of NCCAA National Champions. After the awards were distributed, Coach Coomer culminated the experience by saying, "Incredible play today gentlemen, let's hit the buffet." He was later quoted as saying, "There is no doubt that it was the hard preseason work ethic and on-court determination that produced favorable results for this team."

Last year, the women's tennis team produced its best season in 30 years. It earned a record of 6-5 and placed second in the regional tournament. The 1998-99 version of the team took their season to a whole new level. Posting ten wins and only two losses, the team ranked among the finest to ever play at Olivet. The recipe for success began with an experienced group of upperclassmen, supported by an outstanding freshman class. With the help of Coach Coomer, the team was able to return to the regional tournament and take home a first place spot.

Youth would be the best word to describe the ONU golf team this year. Five impressive freshmen joined the squad and immediately made their presence known. The three returning Olivet golfers, Benjie Potts, Mike Arroyo, and Neal Golyshko readily welcomed the youngsters and helped them lead the Tigers to a successful season. The highlight of the year was the Conference Championship where the Tigers brought home a second place finish. The addition of the freshmen really helped challenge the upperclassmen, and forced them to step their game up to the next level. This competition among the team members helped make all of the golfers better. The competitive practices created situations similar to actual matches. If this group of freshmen can stay together, the ONU golf team looks to enjoy even more success in the future.

spring trip. Traditionally the past spring trips had been to Birmingham and Montgomery, Alabama. The idea for the spring trip was provided by this year's interim coach, Dr. Colling, who served for one year until a permanent head coach could be found.

The fall season went well for the team. "We had new players on new positions and we only played for a few games so it was hard to judge the team from those games. If pitching comes along we should be okay," added Wadsworth. "This year's team has a great deal of experience in our junior and seniors. I anticipate that we should have a good season together. I think that it's possible that with some hard work they may even surprise themselves at how much they can achieve. I don't think that they realize their true potential," said Coach Colling.

Last year's trip to the NAIA National Tournament was a disappointing one. After losing their first two games in the tournament, the Tigers were out of the race. This year, they plan to return to the tournament and do some real damage. After losing only one senior to graduation last year, the team has a lot of experience under their belts. Add to this a strong freshman class and the future appears to be a bright one. "We have a tough schedule this year, but that's the way we like it," said senior Karrie Hamstra. Hamstra believes that by playing the best teams, the Tigers will become a better ball club. "All the teams we play in the spring tournament will be ranked. It should be an intense, fun, and exciting experience."

Cross Country

The ONU cross country teams saw some rough times this season from the beginning. The searing heat and sweltering humidity provided for unpleasant running conditions. As the heat poured on, the depth of the team dwindled. This only gave the remaining team members more incentive to persevere. During the second half of the season the team showed drastic improvements. "Making the Christian Nationals was the climax of the season," stated junior Chancy Whittington. "Overall, we had a good team, and definitely had some good times."

Sports Intramurals

For generations, athletics have been enjoyed by people of all ages. This American tradition is alive and well here at Olivet Nazarene University. In one of his final years as intramural director, Wendy Parsons once again assembled a variety of sports ranging from chess to basketball. Students chose to compete in intramurals for as many reasons as there were sports to choose from. Some loved to compete, others just wanted to stay in shape. Some played because of their love for the game, and some just wanted to have fun. Intramurals provided students with a chance to escape from their daily routine and ease the stress of classes. Friendships have also been made during intramurals, as well as countless memories. Intramurals could not have been possible at Olivet if it weren't for Wendy. Things just would not be the same without the familiar sound of Wendy's voice blaring inside of Ludwig. Thanks for everything Wendy!!

Sports

There are over 270 NAIA schools across the country which sponsor volleyball at the varsity level. In early December, only twenty of these teams can be found competing in the National Championship Tournament. For the second year in a row, the NAIA National Championship Volleyball Tournament was held at Olivet Nazarene University. The tournament brought much excitement into the community for spectators as well as for local businesses. Olivet's squad qualified for the tournament as the host team, and faced off against some of the finest teams in the country. In the final match, Columbia College, from Columbia, Missouri came out on top and was crowned the 19th annual Women's Volleyball National Champs.

Olivet's team played with determination, but was unable to advance into the later rounds of the tournament.

Sports

Since Olivet did not offer men the opportunity to play volleyball at the varsity level, coaches John Hall and Mark Moore joined forces to create club volleyball at ONU. The team competed against other clubs from various schools in and around the Chicago metropolitan area. With little or no time during the day, the team habitually met during the week for practice, and sometimes went until one in the morning. "These guys put in a lot of hard work," said Coach John Hall. "Even though they came to Olivet for different reasons, they still chose to play for the club."

Club Volleyball

At the start of the second semester, Olivet replaced the lights in Birchard gymnasium. This allowed the club volleyball team to reach an optimal level of performance.

The majority of the practice consisted of the team scrimmaging against one another.

CLOSING

So here you have it!

After a confusing first month of school in which we battled lady bugs, Olivet students, faculty, and staff banded together to make this a great year. The year has finally come to an end, yet the memories will never fade. From students' lives to their academic courses, from the sports they played to the clubs they joined, and the people they met to the names they knew, life at Olivet has changed to prepare for the new millennium.

The complications and hardships and the good things will always be remembered. The experience built our character and we will always reflect...

Jeremiah Colling, Bryan Batthauer, Scott Wadsworth, Matt Schweitzer, and Tim DeVinney try not to think about stresses of next baseball game.

Senior Gabriel Garrett was able to study for a semester in Washington D.C. and make new friends from other schools.

Kevin Rector, freshman, finally gets his mailbox open.

Reflections

from p. 331

* November 14 Jars of Clay came to Olivet's campus as a part of Tour 101, their fall college and university tour.

* Reed Hall of Science received a SMART Lab that featured a SMART board, an interactive touch sensitive board.

Eric Smith, Travis Satterlee, Chris Crimmons, Christine Caldwell, and Kristen Langenau prove that their friendship is strong.

* The cafeteria was renovated.

* Karrie Hamstra and her court led the activities of Homecoming Weekend.

* The Speech communication department joined the national honor society of Lambda Pi Eta.

* For the first time in Olivet's history the football team made it to the NAIA national championship.

Seth Horning as "My Favorite Martian."

* December 2-5 the NAIA national women's volleyball championship was again held on Olivet's campus.

* On January 13, Dr. Bowling turned 50 and the whole school celebrated with a 50's themed party.

* April 8-10 saw the invasion of 120 student leaders from other Nazarene schools come together for NSLC.

* The senior class said good-bye to Olivet on May 8. Good luck, we'll miss you!

Kate Ehrich feels her roommate Heather Strous's stress from being the Glimmerglass editor.

I kept telling you we were going to make this yearbook the best yet. This year's staff has given it all they've got. It couldn't have been possible without you. God has answered my prayers as I prayed He would bless each of your lives and your work. It has been wonderful getting to know you all and seeing you rise up against challenges. You are still in my prayers. Please don't ever forget to always put your trust in God and He will give you the strength to make it through anything. You have put up with my craziness and you still stood by me. You understand me so well that you now know when I say, "I'll be right back," usually equates to a half an hour minimum. Thanks for making standing on the desk and listening to music so much fun. Next year don't forget if you get hungry for one of your favorite snacks of animal crackers, pretzels, or Dum Dums you know where to find them. I don't think words can express how important you have been to me and this year's yearbook. Your names and contributions are now stamped in time for everyone to Reflect upon. Below are a few people I'd like to thank.

Mrs. Bowling-Your attention to detail has made all the difference. Thanks for settling for nothing less than the best. Thank you for willingly opening up your house to us. Don't forget to save me some chocolate chip cookies.

Amy Frunz(University Life/Events)-I don't think you have enough to do. You have absolutely no time in your busy schedule, yet you somehow still managed to squeeze in time for the yearbook. Maybe someday our youth groups can go on a retreat together.

Natalie Chovancek(University Life/Events/ Head Photographer)-Can you say stress? I think if there was one thing I would have done to help you, it would have been to make several clones of you. You single-handedly managed to be everywhere at one time. Your level-headedness was just what I needed when I thought I couldn't take anymore.

Jaclyn Couch(Organizations)-I'm so glad you didn't have a nervous break down from all of the yearbook stress. Thanks for helping me to put my problems in perspective. You know what? Every time I hear "Intergalactic" I will think of you.

Amy Boone-Tallman(Academics)-How did you pull off one of the most beautiful weddings and still get a huge section of the yearbook done? Organization has been your key to success. Thanks for staying on top of things.

Anne Giovanni(Academics)-Thanks for being a friend. I know it was your second year on staff. Your faithful friendship has been valuable to me. I'm going to miss running next door to see you all the time.

Scott Weinberg(Sports)-I think I see a vein about to pop in your neck. Even though I will never fully understand our friendship, I'm glad we're a team. Thanks for giving me high-quality stories. "Well," M.D. out.

Jesi Dierickx(Freshmen)-Jesi Jesi, what's up girlie girl? You old school. Thanks for being on the ball. I wish you the best of luck here at Olivet, and I'll see you at home.

Iola Noble(Sophomores)-You've been my roommate and you still want to work with me. You really need help! We've been through a lot. I love ya babe!

Lyndsi Wisher(Juniors)-You are going to be an awesome teacher. I need you around me all the time so some of your creativity will rub off.

Keri Stipp and Tina Van Hoose(Seniors)-Thanks ladies for being willing to help. Instead of just criticizing last year's book you jumped in and helped to make this year's Aurora better. That has meant the world to me!

Josh Richardson(Ads)-This year you have had some experience under your belt and it has shown. You are a work horse. Thanks for producing high-quality ads.

Joe Rarey(Business Manager)-You have a lot of heart! Thanks for always having a positive outlook on life.

Staff-I know you weren't always sure what I wanted from you. You are the backbone of this book. Thanks for not quitting on me.

To my family-I know you didn't want me to do this again, but you still gave me your support. You taught me to never quit and look at where I've gone as a result. Thanks for also being a voice of reason in my life. I love you!

Dr. Jay, Jeanette, Rachel, and T.J. Martinson-You were my support in a strange new town. Thanks for being there and loving me.

Megan McGuire-Thanks for dealing with my silliness. I know a couple of times I about gave you heart failure. Thanks for always being in my corner. You're the best.

Also a special thank you to the junior high youth group at College Church, my SALT group, my Religion department buddies, Megan Kobasa, Christine Casteel, the baseball team (you're not all bad guys), my profs. for working with me, and my friends for always sticking with me and even adjusting your plans so we could hang out.
